

John has over 20 years of experience as a human resources executive, his previous roles spanning the mining, energy, semiconductor and banking industries. He was the Vice President, Human Resources for New Gold, and also held HR leadership roles with PMC-Sierra, Duke Energy, Westcoast Energy, and NatWest Group. John holds a post-graduate diploma in Human Resources Management from the University of Westminster.

Bedford's clients in Western Canada face unique challenges. John brings substantial industry knowledge and market experience, which offers him a unique 'insider's perspective' that will better serve clients and help them shape outstanding talent strategies.